

Dear Message Communications,

I am writing you today to explain how important the services of your company are in growing our business. We provide small to medium size business with working capital, and in this economy, our service is extremely valuable to those merchants, and yours is key to us successfully reaching that clientele.

The flexibility of enabling callings campaigns, modifying voice broadcasting audio messages, and changing the targeting of our message towards geographical locations and/or specific business Demographics make this system a synch. This allow our company to increase our ratio of leads generates versus total merchants contacted which translates in to increased business.

In addition, the ability to track the total number of phone numbers dialed allows us to do follow up calls even after a campaign has ended. We can also remove merchants from our calling list to not waste time redialing an unqualified lead, and can move on to more qualified candidates for our program.

In closing, you company's service and reputation for results in the voice broadcasting space has proven powerful in delivering the latest funding options to new and existing merchants, and growing our overall bottom line.

Thanks again for everything.

Regards,
